AND REGIONAL PLANNING

Dear Friends:

This is the 10th anniversary edition of Alumni News! We hope Alumni News has been able to keep you up-to-date with events in the department and has helped you keep in touch with your classmates and friends.

Like past issues, this year's Alumni News highlights departmental events of the past year, including curriculum changes, student and faculty research efforts, and alumni events. Also included is the second annual DURP alumni salary survey and, of course, the alumni directory.

Our efforts to maintain contact with alumni this year include the mid-year Alumni Update and receptions at both the Cincinnati and Boston APA conferences. At each conference more than 70 alums (and friends of the department) renewed old acquaintances and made new ones. Both receptions were subsidized in part by the University of Illinois Alumni Association. We plan to continue holding alumni receptions at APA conferences and will continue sending announcements in advance.

Our sincere thanks to those of you who have supported the department in so many ways over the years, especially those of you who have helped in student recruitment and who have helped with student placement in internships and permanent positions. The department remains strong and vigorous because of your support.

Sincerely,

Carl V. Patton
Department Head

THE FACULTY AND STAFF

THE YEAR IN REVIEW

This was another active, good year for the department. The undergraduate program was reestablished as a four-year program to serve the needs of freshmen and sophomores who wish to enter the field of planning; a dual degree Master of Urban Planning-Master of Architecture program was developed (final approval pending); Professors Blair, Checkoway, Forrest and Freund were cited as outstanding instructors; courses taught by Professors Checkoway and Guttenberg were cited in Planning as exemplary history courses taught in planning programs across the country; numerous research projects were undertaken; and an extension program in Greece is being developed (see the section about the Bureau). Our research efforts continue to serve the needs of the state and the nation, and they provide professional experience and financial support to our students.

Our faculty and students continue to win awards and fellowships, the number of applicants to the department continues to grow and to come from more and more states and foreign countries, and the department continues to be involved in "real world" activities through student-faculty workshops in communities throughout the state, and through faculty service on planning and community development commissions, advisory boards and similar groups.

There are now 92 students in our program: 60 graduate students and 32 juniors and seniors. Through the Student Planning Organization (SPO), the students again sent orientation information to incoming graduate students, served as hosts to visiting prospective students, provided an orientation day lunch for the new students, and participated on departmental committees. The students also hosted the winter DURP dinner-faculty talent show, the spring awards banquet, and brought speakers to campus.

Our students continue to be well-prepared academically. Students in the class that entered in the Fall of 1980 won a University Fellowship, a Dean's Fellowship, four Graduate College Fellowships, one Creative and Performing Arts Fellowship, and an APA Fellowship. Students in the class that will enter this Fall (1981) won a University Fellowship, five Graduate College Fellowships and one Creative and Performing Arts Fellowship. One of our continuing students won a National Science Foundation Fellowship and another won a University Fellowship.

Faculty and student seminars were offered this year through a Bureau seminar series organized by Michael Romanos and the continuation of the Urban Policy Group seminar series organized by Barry Echeckoway. Virtually all of our faculty members gave presentations in the Bureau's noon seminar series, and Robert Ancar presented the findings of his master's thesis research. The Urban Policy Group heard presentations by faculty members from numerous campus departments, and the Student Planning Organization brought Tom Dyke of Harland Bartholomew & Associates and Dan Lauber of Planning/Communications to campus for a series of meetings and presentations.

Earl Jones joined the department as an assistant professor. He adds to our teaching and research capabilities in the areas of land use planning, neighborhood planning and social planning.

Professor Emeritus Louis Wetmore again served the department through his participation in faculty meetings and by his offering of informal evening seminars at his home for students interested in planning a career strategy.

Costas Sophoulis, Professor of Economics and Planning at the National Technical University of Athens and a planning and development expert in the administration of the Greek government, was appointed to our department as a Visiting Miller University Professor for the year. He continued research for a book concerning the economics of land use and presented his work as a seminar series for the department. He also assisted in developing a possible departmental program in Greece that would involve teaching, research and continuing professional education.

Mary Ravenhall was appointed as City Planning and Landscape Architecture Librarian to fill the position held by Paula Watson who became University Documents Librarian. Barbara Coburn from the Library Acquisitions Department ably served as interim librarian, assisted by Laura Weisiger.

I hope these highlights give you a feel for the scope of activities here in the department. The faculty reports that follow will fill you in on the details. Below is information about several items you may find of interest.

QUALITY OF THE DEPARTMENT

During the past two years we have prepared reports for the Dean and Vice Chancellor about the quality of this department as compared with other planning programs in the nation. In last year's Alumni News the results of a quantitative analysis were reported. Below is additional qualitative information about the stature of this department.

- Four of twelve of our instructors were cited this year as outstanding instructors. Only the top ten percent of instructors campus-wide (as rated by students) receive this recognition.
- Courses by Albert Guttenberg and Barry Checkoway were cited in Planning as history courses of particular relevance to planning students.
- A chapter by Barry Checkoway in Citizen Participation in America and a chapter by Carl Patton in Rural and Small Town Planning were cited as the best chapters in the respective books in reviews in the Journal of the American Planning Association. The lead article in the same issue of the Journal was authored by Andrew Isserman.
- Ten of twelve of our faculty members received research grants, contracts, or awards from non-university sources during the past academic year. These research projects included a quarry re-use study for the Village of Hillside by Michael Romanos, work by Clyde Forrest on water quality regulations for the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency and on land use issues for the Illinois General Assembly Land Resources Management Study Commission, work by John Kim on coal shipment for the Illinois Institute of Natural Resources, and work by Len Heumann (joint appointment with the Housing Research and Development Program) on housing need indicators for the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs.

- National and international research activities included the development of an economic-demographic model for the U. S. Census Bureau by Andrew Isserman, the completion of a five-year transportation development plan for the Korean government by John Kim, the preparation of a regional development accounting model for the Agency for International Development by Michael Romanos, a report for the Dutch Government on the classification of topographic and real estate data by Albert Guttenberg, and two papers on health planning for the National Academy of Sciences by Barry Checkoway. Bill Goodman recently received funding for a trip to Great Britain to develop the groundwork for a comparative study of planning systems.
- Other notable departmental events include "The Allerton Legacy," a conference conceived and organized by Lock Blair to recognize the contributions of Samuel and Robert Allerton to the agricultural, economic and cultural life of Illinois.
- The "Thirties in Illinois" exhibit describing the contribution of the public works programs of the 1930s to the history and culture of Illinois, has had its tour extended for a second time. New exhibit sites will include the Illinois State Fair.

FINANCIAL STATUS OF THE DEPARTMENT

Although the quality of the department remains high and we continue to attract excellent students, we have begun to feel the effect of inflation on our departmental budget, especially our expense budget that pays for the preparation of classroom materials, stationery, telephone, etc. During the past two years these expenses have increased from 20% to 60% but our expense budget has increased only 10%. We have been able to manage during the short run through "creative budgeting" and overhead funds generated through research projects. There is a limit to what can be done without additional sources of income. Our department has decided to address these financial needs before the problem gets too big to handle. I'll be writing you in the fall with details about our Annual Fund Drive as a means of dealing with some of our needs that cannot be funded out of our state budget.

CURRICULUM CHANGES

The undergraduate program was revised to permit freshman and sophomore entry. Transfers at the junior year will continue to be accepted and will likely remain the major source of students for the undergraduate program.

The graduate program was revised to fit more closely the course credit pattern of other campus departments with which we share courses. Virtually all courses were also renumbered so they can be easily identified as core, concentration or elective courses.

New graduate and undergraduate brochures were prepared this year. For the undergraduate program, an advising guide to alternative course sequences was developed. Sample course sequences are given for undergraduates who plan to go directly into planning practice, for those who plan to go on to graduate study, and for those who are seeking an urban studies emphasis.

Brochures describing the six graduate program concentrations were also prepared. The pamphlets for the concentrations (environment and land use, housing and community development, transportation, social planning, historic preservation and regional science) outline required and elective course sequences. Students select a concentration after one or two semesters in the program.

The Ph.D. program is still under consideration by the Illinois Board of Higher Education's Commission of Scholars (an advisory board). The commission raised questions about the proposal at its meeting last October. Since the commission met only once this past year we will not have the opportunity to respond until October of 1981.

STUDENT ENROLLMENT TRENDS

Declining student enrollments as a function of the decline in the college-age population have yet to impact our department. As you know, we have stepped up our student recruitment efforts, have prepared a new departmental brochure, and continue to distribute our departmental poster. We again expect to have an entering graduate class of 25-30 highly qualified students. Undergraduate admissions should maintain the total undergraduate program at approximately 40. This number will increase slightly as students again begin to enter at the freshman and sophomore levels. We are eager to provide information about our programs. If you will distribute a poster for us, please return the form in the appendix.

ALUMNI RELATIONS

We continue to host alumni receptions at national conferences, and an average of 60 alums have been attending. Alumni News continues to be our major means of communicating with distant alumni. Alumni Update, the mid-year report from the department, will again be produced this year. However, Alumni Update is being underwritten by the Alumni Association. This means that only members of the Alumni Association will be eligible to receive future issues.

We encourage you to join the Alumni Association. Our constituent (departmental) alumni association will benefit from your dues. (There are no additional departmental dues.) Through your membership we receive funds to sponsor Alumni Update and to help defray the cost of receptions at the national APA conferences.

Your benefits from the Alumni Association include:

- the University alumni newspaper
- information about alumni activities in our area
- low-cost insurance programs
- group travel--ten or more trips per year
- preference for bowl game tickets--should that ever occur!
- the DURP Alumni Update
- Illinois merchandise service
- programs through the Alumni College
- family camps at Allerton Park
- 20% discount on University Press books
- library borrowing privileges

Officers of the Alumni Association for 1981-82 include

Timothy Beeble (MUP '79), President
York Phillips (BUP '69), Vice-President
Eric Freund (MSCP '63), Secretary-Treasurer

John M. Page (MUP '77) serves as our representative on the University Alumni Association Board of Directors.

Join the Alumni Association now by filling out the form in the appendix.

Research

This has been our number one priority this past year. With federal and state support for research diminishing at an alarming rate, the effort required to maintain a healthy research program is much greater now than it used to be just a few short years ago. Our plan has been to diversify our activities and to gradually establish research expertise in some well-defined areas. In concert with the goals of our long-proposed Ph.D. program, these research areas have been defined in the domains of land use, regional development and international/third-world development and planning.

Despite funding difficulties, this has been a rewarding year in many respects. Not only did we complete several on-going projects and begin several new ones, but we set the foundations for some long-range projects and research cooperatives, while at the same time establishing collaboration with several units and departments outside Urban and Regional Planning. More specifically, our major research involvement has been the following:

Recently Completed Projects

Professor Isserman completed his project "Measuring Needs and Distress" which was funded by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Collaborating on this research was Professor Marilyn Brown of the Department of Geography, and several graduate assistants. The project report is being considered by HUD for publication and wide distribution.

Professor Patton completed his preparation of a traveling exhibit entitled The Thirties in Illinois; it has already been presented in several openings around the state. The exhibit, funded by the Illinois Humanities Council, focuses on the Illinois activities of the Public Works Administration, the Works Progress Administration, and the Civilian Conservation Corps, and includes examples of public buildings and art, arrangements of open space and recreation areas, and literature during the decade of the 30's. Collaborating in the project were Professors Blair, Freund and Guttenberg and several graduate assistants, including Terry Hoffman, Tom Brimberry, Diane Wilcenski Zabel and Jerry Otto.

Carl Patton also was the principal investigator of a study on Alternative Policies and Programs for Rebuilding the Capital Infrastructure in the Metropolitan Midwest, under a grant awarded by the University Research Board. The project collected and analyzed data on capital improvements needs and procedures in selected midwestern cities, and studied specific strategies and techniques that could be employed to meet particular needs. Keith Mitchell was the research assistant.

Professor Checkoway completed work on his project, Innovative Methods to Encourage Public Participation in Health Planning, funded by the University's Office of Interdisciplinary Projects. The project was designed to survey the major public participation methods in use, identify innovative methods and agencies, and analyze the obstacles encountered and factors affecting participation.

Professor Forrest completed his project on the Legality of Exclusive Agricultural Zoning Districts, which was supported by a grant from the University of Illinois' Research Board. Research assistants participating on this project included Dahtzen Chu, Jim Mathien and Katy Jones.

Clyde Forrest was also the principal investigator of another study completed during this past year. The project concerned an Inventory of Environmental Law, and was funded through a contract from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency. Its objective was to update the existing information system on environmental law for the State, and develop a system of information storage and retrieval. Other faculty involved in the study included Bill Goodman and Michael Romanos. Several research assistants participated on the project.

During the summer of 1980, Dr. Romanos completed work on a project on the Evaluation of Impacts of Regional Policies, under a grant from the University Research Board. The purpose of the project was to develop a methodology for the evaluation of regional development program impacts, and is part of a larger project on this subject. For the past summer, he concentrated on techniques of project and program monitoring, especially in regions with limited information resources. A paper was prepared on this topic, with the cooperation of Nancy Sjursen who served as the project's research assistant.

New and Continuing Projects

During the current year, bureau staff kept busy with several continuing and new projects.

Professor Forrest began a year-long study for the Land Resources Management Study Commission. The project, which was funded by the Illinois General Assembly, was completed July 1, 1981. Research assistants working with Professor Forrest include Pattsie Petrie, Susan Bevelheimer, Dahtzen Chu and Joseph Mueller.

Professor Hewings of the Department of Geography and Professor Romanos completed the first part of an on-going project on "Methods of Impact Assessment in Developing Regions." Funded by the Agency for International Development, the project is part of a larger grant to the University of Illinois, under AID's institutional strengthening program (Title XII). Bill Syversen is the research assistant in the study, which is to continue for at least another year.

Professor Kluesing of the Department of Landscape Architecture and Professor Romanos finished a short-term project for the Village of Hillside, Illinois. The project, which dealt with alternative development proposals for a stone quarry situated within the confines of the Village resulted in a report which the Village Board intends to use in its contacts with prospective developers. Michael Bellinger served as the research assistant for the study.

Thanks to the generous support of several University funding units, Professor Romanos was able to initiate or continue research on several other research projects. The Research Board is supporting a project on "The Use of a Lowry-Type Model for Urban Simulations." The study is setting up a computer program for use by students and faculty in individual research and workshop instruction. Nancy Sjursen, Dan Kessler and Terry Hoffman have been involved in various aspects of it as research assistants.

With joint funding from the Research Board and the Map and Geography Library, Professor Romanos has been purchasing a set of maps of Greek regions, to be used in a study of regional organization of rural settlements. That study is being partially funded by the Center of International Comparative Studies. Finally, a grant from the Office of International Programs and Studies will allow us to begin work in establishing an international extension of our teaching and research program in Greece. That new program, which is to start as a summer activity and expand into a year-long instructional program within a few years, is an undertaking on which we hope to be able to report to you extensively next year.

Continuing Education

The Basic Economic Development Course, held each fall at Allerton House near Monticello, is now being administered through the Department of Agricultural Economics by John Quinn. Both the Basic Community Planning Course and the Institute on Planning, scheduled for the spring and summer respectively, were cancelled because of low preregistration.

John Quinn, the Associate Director of the Bureau for several years, will be moving his office--as well as most of his time and effort--to the Department of Agricultural Economics in Mumford Hall. He will, however, maintain involvement with the Bureau's public service and continuing education activities.

Publications

Within the past year, the Bureau published Making Regional Planning Work edited by Robert Dyck and Bruce McDowell. The book has been selling very well. In the Planning and Public Policy series, under the editorial leadership of Al Guttenberg, we published the following four articles:

Vol. 6, No. 3

(August, 1980), "Remembering the Thirties: Public Works Programs in Illinois--a Travelling Exhibit." By Albert Guttenberg, Carl Patton, et. al.

Vol. 6, No. 4

(Nov. 1980), "The 1980 Census" by Susan E. Bekiares and Paula D. Watson.

Vol. 7, No. 1

(Feb. 1981), "Reflections On The Prospects For Continued Rural Growth." By Andrew J. Sofranko and Frederick C. Fliegel.

Vol. 7, No. 2

(May, 1981), "Energy and Food--Competition for the Land of Knox County." By David Chicoine and John Quinn.

Finally, in late spring, we revived the Planning Papers series, with a new editorial policy and a new cover, designed by Dahtzen Chu after a design competition. (The designs for the cover and divider pages of this issue of the Alumni News were taken from the cover design of the Planning Papers series done by Dahtzen.) The new editor of the series is Len Heumann, and the first papers appearing in the series included:

- Costas Sophoulis, "Are 'Non-producible inputs' Meaningful in Either Postive or Marxian Economics: An Inquiry into the Logical Implications of Traditional Definitions of 'land'"
- William Goodman, "Professional Education: The Alternative University"
- T. John Kim, T. R. Wells, and K. S. Chon, "An Alternative Approach for Evaluating the Impact of Transportation Systems Management on Air Quality"

Personnel

Several new faces were evident in our building this year. We have two new and able secretaries, Elizabeth Rich and Kathy Ard. In addition, Judy Lieberman, Craig Grant, Susan Bevelheimer and Carol Hollowell have served as research assistants in various capacities.

Prospects

As we are planning for the next academic year, we are setting some rather ambitious goals for our research, in terms of both areas of emphasis, and amount of dollar support. We are also planning to continue with our publications program, with two or three more titles of current interest.

Next year we will begin a major overhaul of our continuing education program, in an effort to make it more responsive to your changing needs and priorities. We will be contacting many of you for advice and support, as well as insights into what makes more sense to run, in this period of increasing competition and lagging interest in continuing education. We do count on your support, and hope to have your good counsel.

Michael Romanos

Lachlan F. Blair

My courses this year included the following: "Methods of Preservation Research and Planning" in which fifteen students scrambled through a series of field survey and documentation tasks, thus enriching local archives; "Thesis Preparation" in which we continued our never-ending search for the magic formula to inspire Master's candidates to get started and get done on time. We're still searching!; "Planning for Historic Preservation" which continues in popularity with students from many departments, to whom we have imparted among other things, an accurately-confused impression of what is happening to federal programs; and "Cultural Planning Workshop" in which nine students, using a state Arts Planning Grant, worked out plans and programs for the Champaign County Arts and Humanities Council.

The workshop studies were very well received by the client group which has since roped me into chairing the committee for a new Champaign County Arts Center. The prospects for that are quite promising. I am involved in another new group, the Preservation and Conservation Association of Champaign County. It has much to do. Since I am also on the Champaign County Regional Planning Commission, I have this strange feeling that I'll run into myself at a county meeting someday!

Had a lot of fun in May with a symposium on "The Allerton Legacy." Sitting on the Allerton Trust Management Board convinced me that although the University is very proud of Allerton House and Robert Allerton Park, few of us know any more about who Allerton was than we do about O'Hare. A solid day's worth of papers and publicity and the "Proceedings" I am now editing will help change that a bit.

The voters in November, among other mistakes, did not approve merging Champaign and Urbana. Mary's efforts on that and other good causes earned her the "1981 Public Service Award" of the League of Women Voters of Illinois. I am more proud than she. We are going out at the end of summer to Olympia, Washington, for Marilyn's wedding; and we'd like to take about three times as many trips as we do to Detroit to be with our three fine grandchildren and their folks.

Barry N. Checkoway

Another busy year for the Checkoways. Amy taught herself to read and began kindergarten at Leal School, walking by herself or with her friends as six-year-olds can safely do in Urbana. Laura survived the "two's" and began in the local Cooperative Nursery School, where Margie served as administrator before deciding to enter a doctoral program in educational administration at Illinois. We remain among the meetingest families in town, and continue to value the high quality of life in Urbana, while still favoring large cities and spending summers in the Bay Area.

And a hectic but productive year for me. In addition to usual responsibilities, I was commissioned by the National Academy of Sciences to produce reports on citizen participation in health planning; completed a national study of innovative methods used by HSAs to encourage participation for the Bureau of Health Planning; and conducted a national survey of participation practice in all HSAs using a mail questionnaire for a series of articles. My Citizens and Health Care: Participation and Planning for Social Change is scheduled for publication by Pergamon Press in August. In addition, I received a grant for a study of a neighborhood planning organization in a low income black neighborhood in the northside area of St. Louis, and am joining with Carl Patton to complete The Metropolitan Midwest: Policy Problems and Prospects for Change for publication by the University of Illinois Press.

Today the future of planning in America appears uncertain. The Reagan administration and a more conservative government promise less money for domestic programs, and regional and metropolitan agencies expect to be hit hard. In the face of fiscal cutbacks, some of you have surely been challenged to produce concrete results and show support for your work. In so doing, you may have reoriented citizen participation to increase public awareness, develop community leadership, form alliances and support networks, and mobilize support for planning. If you have had exemplary experiences along these lines in your local community, I would be interested in hearing from you about them.

Clyde W. Forrest

Doesn't time fly when you're having fun and busy!

The year started off with directing two new projects. The first involved a study for the U. S. and Illinois EPA and resulted in a 400-page report entitled "Inventory of Federal and State Water Quality Statutes and Regulations." The project involved myself, Professors Goodman and Romanos, and three research assistants. My primary conclusion in this project is that indeed we have overly complicated the water quality regulatory area, and simplification and reorientation is needed to simplify the complex maze of law. I was made Director of an Illinois legislative study commission on land resources management. This commission will be making a report this June which will include at least six legislative proposals to improve the framework within which land use planning is conducted in Illinois. We are pursuing basically a bottom-up approach in planning legislation.

Course work is the same, but we will have a joint law and planning degree. It will be structured similarly to other joint programs at major universities, but will probably not be officially launched until the fall of 1982.

I was fortunate to attend the APA conferences in Cincinnati and Boston. I enjoyed the sessions and particularly the opportunity to meet with professional colleagues, including former students. The SPO "Sprawl Ball" found occasion to do a "This is Your Life, Professor Forrest" program in my behalf, and I should say that it was "remarkable."

Jeanette is now a director of Kids' Place pre-school, and I have been introduced lately as the "husband of the best pre-school teacher in the world." Russell, Amy and Mitchell continue to enliven the home-front as only two teens and a pre-teen can.

I would like to urge former students to plan to attend the APA National Conference in Dallas in the spring of 1982. There are some first class Mexican restaurants and the margaritas are really good. See you all there.

Eric C. Freund

Have you ever crawled up the side of a tall building and seen the smallest architectural details that you could not possibly see from the ground? Believe me, it's quite exciting, especially when the building is Westminster Abbey, in London, built over seven hundred years ago! I should explain that I was not trying to emulate Spiderman when I was up there last summer, but was travelling to the top of the building in a mason's hoist which gave access to the many levels of scaffolding erected to enable restoration work to proceed. At the level of the huge flying buttresses I disembarked on to the staging. What a view! Trafalgar Square just discernible in the distance, and toy buses and ant-like people scurrying everywhere! Much nearer, sights were to be seen which had probably never been admired since the original stone-carvers put them there--the life-size face of a medieval mason; the grave face of an ecclesiastical dignitary.

I hope to return there this year - perhaps as early as next month - to see how works are progressing - and the next year - and the next - for it will take many years to repair the ravages wrought by time and by man's pollution of the atmosphere, now, on London at least, much abated.

Of course I did much more while I was in Britain last year, but time forces me to hold the details jealously close and not to share them as I otherwise would. This year I will check on works and events that were in progress last year, and will also examine Britain's experience with "Enterprise Zones" over the past few years and which we have now discovered over here, although the Reagan administration seems to be too shy to release details of possible implementation of the idea. I hope to find out if there are any snags in this type of "non-planning planning" and to see if the snags would apply here too.

As usual, classes passed by in a blur last year, and all-too-suddenly were over. I was appointed for a three-year term to the Illinois Historic Sites Advisory Council, which is proving to be a most interesting experience; was thanked, in an official letter from the Mayor of Tuscola to the Head, for all the assistance we have given to the City over the past few years, and was mentioned in a resolution passed by the Tuscola City Council on May 11, 1981, expressing the City's gratitude, the first such resolution, I believe, that the Department has received. However, the credit must also go to those who worked with me and are now among you - so bask in the reflected glory all you post 236, 337, and 338ers! You may also be interested to know that the comprehensive plan, the subdivision regulations, and the zoning ordinance have now all been adopted and Tuscola now has all the planning tools that any city could desire. It now remains for us to see what they will do with them!

Of course I could go on about interesting events of the year now past. Space only permits me to mention productive practical work as chairman of the Allerton Park Improvements Committee which advises the Management Board; continuing involvement in WILL Radio programs; heading up the United Way fund drive for the College (too well, I fear, for I have been asked to do it again this year!); various involvements in solving community problems through the State; and a fascinating research project for the Illinois Attorney General on the assumption of British Feudal land philosophy into the American legal system. Oh yes - and by way of relaxation, involvement as Vice-President of the local Izaak Walton League chapter.

Do keep in touch won't you, both new and old Alums. Remember we have a DURP Alumni Association now, and as Secretary, I'll promise to reply to any letter you may care to write about anything. THAT should keep me busily employed until next year!

William I. Goodman

I presented a paper at the annual conference of the APA in Cincinnati on a panel devoted to the Green Books that have guided city planning students and practitioners during the past 42 years. Other members of the panel included Ladislav Segoe, editor of the first edition, and Frank So, coordinating editor of the current edition. I edited the fourth edition published in 1968.

After the close of the spring semester, I went to Great Britain, with the aid of a grant, to explore a continuation of the work I did on, a sabbatical in 1962-63 comparing British and American planning practice and education. In the intervening years, the British seemed to have moved closer to the American usage of citizen participation, policy objectives, and social science techniques, while American interest in environmental management and historic preservation, early English interests, have been considerably strengthened.

Albert Z. Guttenberg

This has been a relaxing summer, but I'll soon be heading for Greece to do my part in the preliminaries of setting up a DURP branch in that country - and after that to Switzerland.

Last year at this time Carl Patton and I were still struggling to ready "The Thirties in Illinois" for opening night at Temple-Buell Gallery. We made it and it was a success. In fact it continues to tour the state under the able and learned direction of Craig Zabel. "The Thirties in Illinois" is an exhibit on the public works programs, including the arts programs, for the depression era. It was funded by the Illinois Humanities Council.

A pleasant sequel to my recent sojourn in Holland was a visit in September by some Dutch colleagues, whom I joined in their study of American land information systems. The report of the pilot phase of our work on a classification system for real estate and topographic data in the Netherlands was published last November and favorably received by the Dutch Government.

In October I attended the APA Conference in Cincinnati where with Don Krueckeberg, Genie Birch and a few others I helped found an American Planning History Group. Don followed up by arranging a panel at the Boston meeting featuring two historic planning figures - Charles Eliot II of National Resources Planning Board fame, and Jack Howard. The task of arranging something similar in Dallas next year has fallen to me. I'd welcome suggestions. (Speaking of the NRPB, Resources for the Future has just published a book on the National Planning Board and its successors by Marion Clawson, entitled New Deal Planning. Clawson worked for that agency as a young man.)

It's always good to run into former students at conferences and elsewhere. Last year I got a call from Ward Luthi, and Mike Schubert and Mush Berman dropped by for brief visits. I hope I'll hear from them next year and others as well.

Leonard F. Heumann

Looking back over what I reported on over the last several years, I notice I have discussed teaching, research, community service and family life. Last year I said all four were well balanced and this year I must concur, with events in all areas building on events begun in the previous year.

Under teaching, I am happy with all my courses but I must admit I continue to get the most back from the students in the housing courses, as opposed to planning theory. The workshop this year built on a public service project that began last year. The clients were the tenants of two low-income housing projects in Champaign and The American Friends Service Committee. The project was to convert the projects into tenant-owned cooperatives. A very exciting national mini-trend.

Under research this year I completed a major (two years of grants from the Andrus Foundation) national project on local planning capacity/quality with regard to the elderly. We completed the report and a journal article this winter and spring. Another research project came out of the 1980 housing workshop on "integration maintenance" in Park Forest, Illinois. The Village hired me to complete an in-depth evaluation of the program in perspective to other such programs nationally. Work on my book Sheltered Housing for the Elderly continues this summer after some eight months where other tasks took precedence.

Public Service involvement also continues to expand. I am still on one national housing policy/research review panel. I am also on the Champaign Better Housing Committee and the Boards of the local AFSC and Tenants Housing Association efforts to develop tenant co-ops mentioned above.

Family is still the most joyous and most time-consuming. For those who are familiar with the Jewish Bat Mitzva, our daughter Sarena turned 13 and was Bat Mitzvaed in April with many friends and family in attendance. Our newest family member, Micah, is growing much too fast. He's as cute as a button and, as you can imagine, given his two middle-aged parents and much older siblings, is constantly lavished with attention. Remember in 1980 I said I was designing an addition to our house to accommodate our growing family? Well I did it! The roof was cut into and rebuilt in August/September 1980. We changed our house into a very modern angular looking structure. It now has five bedrooms. We are still in court over liability for rain damage to the first floor while the roof was open!! What a mess it was! I am also still spending my weekends hanging doors and electrical fixtures, installing tile, stair rails, etc., and painting, sanding and plastering. We .... I .... should be done by the middle of the Fall .... I hope; I hope, I hope.

This year has been particularly eventful. Last year I wrote about Ellen's goal of entering medical school, the birth of our son Jacob, and our happy return to Urbana after a year in Washington. Since then, Ellen has begun medical school at the University of Iowa, Jacob walks and is a delightful little person, and we have moved from Urbana to Iowa City.

I have accepted a position at the University of Iowa in the Planning, Geography, and Economics Departments. My teaching responsibilities will be very similar to those at Illinois, and I shall continue editing the International Regional Science Review. After eight years on the Illinois faculty, I'm sad to leave my colleagues. I think highly of our planning program and our university. On the other hand, in these troubled times of budgetary woe (apparently the Urbana medical school is being closed), we are very grateful that Ellen and I can pursue two careers in the same town at a good university.

Thanks to Interstate 80, Iowa City is well located for east-west travellers. Our address is 9 Caroline Court, Iowa City, 52240, and our phone number is (319) 338-1549. I am encouraging DURP to add a "faculty alumni" section to this publication so that we may continue to keep in touch once a year.

Wish Ellen well!

I returned to the campus after having exciting international and national experiences in Korea for the academic year of 1979-80. I joined a newly-established task force in June, 1979. The task force, the Regional Development Research Institute, was created to plan and design the new capital city for Korea. My primary duty as the research director was to direct the planning division of the task force and to direct the $1.5 million project for the 5th Five-Year National Transportation Development plan sponsored jointly by the Republic of Korea and the World Bank. My first duty ended when President Park was assassinated, and the new capital city plans and designs were abandoned on the book shelves. The 5th Five-Year National Transportation Development Plan was successfully completed and is now being implemented.

After the assassination, my father-in-law became the Prime Minister and Acting President until the present President was elected. During this period, I found myself as an unofficial staff member to my father-in-law and experienced so many new things that I cannot write them all down.

After I returned, I had some difficulty in adjusting back to the academic world, but I was able to successfully teach four courses: Introduction to Transportation Planning, a Land Use Workshop in which the Chicago Department of Planning was the client (thanks to Dennis Harder, MUP 1967), a Transportation Planning Workshop, and Evaluation of Public Plans and Policies.

In February I presented a paper entitled, "Assessing the Impact of TSM on Travellers' Route Choice" at the 20th Annual Western Regional Science meeting in Newport Beach, California. I organized and chaired a session with Professor David Boyce for Senator Percy's Public Hearing and Conference, on "High Sulfur Coal Export" in Carbondale, Illinois in June.

I am currently working with two graduate students, Robert Ancar and Cynthia Griffin on a project, "Promoting Illinois Coal Export." Thanks to Frank Beal (MUP 1968), Director of The Illinois Institute of Natural Resources, for his support for the project.

My family is all well. Moonja became a "forever student" and now is studying Accountancy, not being content with her Ph.D. in Psychology. She is very happy with her choice of a second field. Both sons, Youngmoo and Tony, are very active on the Champaign-Urbana Youth Hockey Team; their team became the 1980 champion Mite team in Illinois because their Daddy coached them well!

Teaching, research, writing papers, travelling, and coaching the youth hockey team left me only a few hours on Saturdays for me to improve my golf, but I am shooting about 90 on the Orange Course in Savoy. So, if you are a golfer, pack your clubs on your next trip to the campus.

In addition to my administrative assignment I continue some involvement in teaching, research and writing. My teaching this year included UP 376, Planning Analysis, and UP 475, Planning Methods. For UP 376, the South Loop area of Chicago served as a case area, and my class teamed up with John Kim's Land Use Planning Workshop to conduct a study for the Chicago Department of Planning. Dennis Harder (MUP '67), assistant commissioner of the Chicago Planning Department arranged for the study.

My work on budgeting and university enrollment trends resulted in my appointment to the University Senate's budget committee and the Chancellor's budget committee where we have been trying to deal with the ever-changing university budget picture. My work on this topic also caused me to be appointed to a national AAUP committee dealing with similar issues.

I was also elected to the executive committee of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Planning, continue to chair the Urbana Community Development Commission, and remain a member of the Champaign County Development Council Foundation.

Writing assignments this year included a chapter on "Policy Analysis in State and Regional Planning" for the APA/ICMA forthcoming "green book," titled The Practice of State and Regional Planning; a report for the American Research Institute for the Arts about the impact of declining enrollments on fine arts faculties; and an article with David Palmer (at the University of Storrs, Connecticut) about mid-career change programs that could be used in academe to deal with declining enrollments and shrinking budgets.

Barry Checkoway and I are editing a book on the future of the Midwest. To be published next year by the University of Illinois Press, the book focuses on the demographic, economic, social-cultural, and planning problems and prospects of the midwest. Chapters are being authored by sixteen top-flight practitioners and scholars from across the country.

On the home front, Gretchen continues as personnel director at Robeson's. As an administrator she has become deeply involved in numerous professional committees and community service groups. Jane goes to junior high next year and John enters the sixth grade. They both play on the same Little League baseball team. The team holds first place in their league and recently won an invitational tournament. Jane is the only girl in the league and is one of the team's power hitters. I no longer coach Little League (the kids got too good for me), but I now co-coach soccer. Our team (on which Jane and John play) just finished its second undefeated season. John plays goalkeeper and has allowed only three goals in two years.

Gretchen and I ended our second term as co-presidents of the Leal School PTA by writing a grant proposal that obtained funds for the school's Cultural Arts Program. The Cultural Arts Program is funded by friends of the school in order to bring performing artists to the school for special performances for the children. The grant means that several internationally-renowned performers will appear at Leal School next year.

The year went quicker than ever. We're excited about our incoming class, and we're looking forward to another good year. We're always happy to have alumni visit the department, so please let us know when you're coming to Urbana. I hope to see many of you at the alumni reception at the APA conference. We'll be sending an announcement about time and location. Have a good year!

John A. Quinn

I continued as editor of the Journal of the Community Development Society. I became President of the Illinois Chapter, Community Development Society.

I'm stepping down as Associate Director of the Bureau and moving full-time to Mumford Hall this summer, but maintaining an appointment with the department and Bureau's public service activities and continuing education program.

I'm also completing a term as city alderman.

Michael C. Romanos

This was "Bureau" year. Developing a research program, involving the faculty in new projects, and organizing our operations were the main objectives of my work. As a result, I did little travelling when not required, and have not seen many of you these past several months. Thanks to the cooperation of many colleagues and the assistance of several graduate students, the work in the Bureau has been a real pleasure, and I am looking forward to next year with great expectations.

In my research, I have concentrated on two projects this year. One project deals with improvements in the structure of large-scale urban models and their applicability in the activities of M.P.O.s. With the help of Nancy Sjursen, Dan Kessler and Terry Hoffman, I set up a Lowry-type urban model which is now operational and is used for a variety of urban simulations. I also ran a survey of planning agency uses of urban models, and have received encouraging words and useful information from many of you.

My other research interest followed up on last year's research on the economic structure of developing regions. Geoff Hewings and I completed an input-output research analysis of the economy of a region in Northeastern Greece, and are now continuing with some theoretical extensions of the methodology used there. We also experimented with data collection techniques based on small samples, such as Delphi. These are exciting areas of work, and we intend to continue on them for several more years -- I'll keep you informed.

Among many other decisions, this was the year I decided to clear my file cabinets of all those "pending" folders of old acquaintances who have not yet completed their master's theses! Several of you, as a result, have received personal letters urging you to go back to your notes, and finish what you began years ago. The response has overwhelmed me, and I am delighted. If things go as promised, we are going to have quite a crop of graduates by the end of this year. And I hope to see, or talk, to many others among you who have -- unfortunately? -- completed your theses, but who have not kept in touch with the old ground. Be happy and successful -- and let us hear about it!

This year I moved to a cooperative apartment (not a condominium). It is at 406 North State, #10, in Champaign.

I have been working with American Friends Service Committee this year. We are trying to acquire two housing projects -- Bradley Park and Mount Olive Manor. We are working with the Tenants Council; our hopes are to eventually turn the projects over to the Tenants Council as a cooperative.

Also this year I have begun work on the Charlotte Keyes Memorial Peace Information Center to be set up in cooperation with the Champaign Public Library.

Louis B. Wetmore

I remained involved with the Department this year by teaching two "volunteer" career planning seminars and attending as many faculty meetings as possible.

THE STAFF

Kathy Ard

Kathy has worked in our department since January. She works for several faculty, but some of her other responsibilities are ordering supplies and answering telephones and visitor questions at 909 West Nevada. In her spare time, Kathy and her husband Tim have been working on clearing their three acres of farmland, to get it ready for their homestead.

Eileen Barthel

Eileen worked half-time from October through June. She assisted Clyde Forrest in his study for the Land Resources Management Study Commission of the Illinois General Assembly. We were sorry to see the project end because it meant that Eileen's position ended also. Possibly she will be able to work for us again on another project.

Barbara Hartman

When Vi Wilkey retired last summer, Barb took over many of her duties, including the daily management of all the accounts -- both those funded by the state budget and the various grants we receive. She attended the Cincinnati APA conference in October and saw many alumni. She continues her part-time student status in the School of Social Work on campus.

Lynn Hethke

Lynn began working in our main office at 1003 West Nevada in December. She is Professor Blair's secretary, does most of the typing for Professor Patton and Barb Hartman, is responsible for the department's portable equipment, and often fills in for secretaries in other buildings. She is a native of Paxton and drives to Urbana from there every day.

Eleanor Penn

Ellie continues as secretary to the faculty at 1001 West Nevada as well as helping out on many other projects as needed. Her outside interests still include singing (she often participates in a chorus). Her vacation this summer was a trip to England, which she thoroughly enjoyed!

Elizabeth Rich

Elizabeth has worked since last summer as the Bureau secretary. She is secretary to Professor Romanos. She also handles all our publications orders as well as registrations for continuing education courses. She hails from California.

Jane Terry

Jane has now worked in DURP for ten years. She is Admissions Clerk for the graduate program, departmental receptionist, and coordinator of a lot of the production aspects of department operations. She now supervises the work of our part-time work-study students. And she can still remember students who were in the department ten years ago!

STUDENT PLANNING ORGANIZATION

The Student Planning Organization (SPO) had great success in 1980-81. In these past two semesters, many more students were involved in SPO activities. Socially, SPO sponsored several enjoyable get-togethers and events. The year began with the traditional orientation picnic for new graduate students, followed by the annual fall picnic held at Illini Grove. Both serve as occasions for new students to get acquainted with continuing students, faculty and staff.

Also, SPO took part in some fund-raising activities which were a huge success. SPO printed D.U.R.P. "T-shirts" and sold them to students, including the DURP intramural basketball team. In addition, second-year graduate student Dahtzen Chu took a group picture of students, faculty and staff and sold prints to help boost SPO funds.

Indoor activities abounded too. In addition to the many informal activities, SPO continued two recently-founded traditions: The Fall Sprawl Ball and the Spring Fling. The Fall Sprawl Ball was held on the last day of regular classes for fall semester at the Levis Faculty Center on campus. The Ball was truly a holiday festival. The evening was highlighted by a "roast" of Professor Clyde W. Forrest Jr., and the brilliant performance, once again, of Lennie (Len Heumann) and the Lenettes, Eric Freund's story-telling, and Christmas caroling by the departmental secretaries.

Likewise, the Spring Fling was held on the last day of classes for spring semester, at Urbana's Best Western Regency Inn. After dinner, yours truly and the other new SPO officers, presented graduating seniors and graduate students with "honorary diplomas" from SPO. Amid the jokes, there were more serious presentations to those whose efforts in SPO and the department were deserving of recognition. Judy Schneider received the American Planning Association undergraduate student award; Jim Mathien received the APA graduate student award; and Barry Miller received the Karl Lohmann Award for professional promise.

On the academic and professional fronts, SPO was equally active. In addition to the regular representation of SPO at faculty meetings, SPO members also served as representatives on several committees, including the Admissions Committee. Also, SPO brought various guest speakers to the department including alumni Daniel Lauber, a Senior Planner in Oak Park, Illinois, and Thomas Dyke of Harland Bartholomew and Associates in Chicago.

SPO can be proud of these accomplishments during this active year under the leadership of outgoing president Tom Brimberry. It is our hope to continue the social functions of SPO next year, while at the same time expand academic and professional opportunities to the students of DURP. We hope that with substantial funding from the Student Organization Resource Fund (SORF), we can expand our services to the department, the community, and to the profession.

With the help of my able assistants (Vivian Young - Vice President; Katy Jones - Treasurer; Julie Bernsen and Jeff Braun - undergraduate representatives), SPO can maintain its position as a viable force. We're looking forward to a tremendous year.

SOME COMMENTS FROM FORMER STUDENTS

"To all of the DURP faculty, staff, and students whom I have had the pleasure of knowing and studying under the past 2 years:

I just want to say thanks for everything! I have learned a great deal from all of you, knowledge that will help me at Penn and throughout my career. More importantly, I had the opportunity to meet many of you as people, not just as teachers, and I think that is a special quality unique to this department as compared to any other department at U. of I. or any other university. I want to thank all of you for taking the time out to get to know me as a person and not just a student - for DURP will always be considered a very special place throughout my lifetime."

"Greetings! I hope that all is well at the U. of I. I really value the education that I received under the program and trust that things are pretty much the same. When a student there I often heard our curriculum criticized (some by our own graduates) for not dealing with the practical "hands on" knowledge and for not being geared toward the latest federal programs. I found, however, that this type of knowledge, such as zoning codes, CDBG, UDAG and NBD studies, is picked up rather quickly on the job and may become obsolete soon anyway. Witness Reagan's budget cuts. The planning theory and analytical techniques learned in school puts my everyday work into a larger context, which one is not afforded in a job situation. I guess as students we are a little too impatient to get out and do it!"

ALUMNI SALARY SURVEY

This year we repeated the well-received salary survey of last year, receiving an encouraging 40% response rate. Given the number of responses (227 replies), however, the salary averages should be viewed as a general approximation of relative salaries. Because of the small number of observations in most sub-groups, the reader is cautioned about the conclusions drawn from their findings. Interpretations are left largely to the reader.

The questionnaires received were not all useable for this analysis because of insufficient or illegible information. Moreover, portions of this analysis required the selection and processing of only those questionnaires for which certain criteria were met. From all useable questionnaires received, the respondents varied in age from 21 to 73 years; the mean and median age was 35.4 and 32.4 years, respectively. Seventy six percent of the respondents (172) were male and 24% were female (55). Since 1970, however, one-third of all DURP graduates have been women, and the majority of female respondents (92%) received their DURP degree since 1970.

Forty-six percent of the respondents earned their undergraduate degree from our department (or one of its predecessor departments). Of these 95 alumni, slightly more than half continued their education and received either a graduate degree in planning (15 from this department), earned a degree in another field, or are currently enrolled in a graduate program. Seventy-four percent of all respondents earned a graduate degree from this department (including DURP undergraduate alumni). Of these graduates, seven returned to school for a second masters degree (primarily in Business Administration) while seven returned for a planning-related advanced degree.

Eighty-eight percent of the respondents report they are actively employed in the field of planning (both full and part-time) whereas 5% are employed in fields closely related to planning (public administration and real estate) and 7% are employed in non-planning professions. Of those employed in the planning profession, 73% (142 respondents) are employed in the non-profit sector and at all levels of the public sector. The remaining 27% are either self-employed or employed elsewhere as members of a private consulting firm. Our responding alumni still seem to prefer life in the Midwest (where 45% are located) although substantial percentages are located in the Southwest (12%), Industrial East (11%), Far West (9%), and South (9%). Respondents are also located elsewhere throughout the country (with several overseas) and work in communities and cities of all sizes.

Alumni salary findings are reported in the following table by the last degree earned at this department. The groups include: 1) responding alumni with an undergraduate degree from this department (and any additional undergraduate degrees) and 2) responding alumni with a masters degree from this department (including those who earned their undergraduate degree from this department or elsewhere and those with a second masters degree). Data are also shown for all responding alumni (including those alumni with advanced graduate degrees and those not employed in the planning profession). The results are grouped according to the year the respondent began work at his or her first position following graduation from the department, indicating the amount of work experience the respondent has. All figures shown are in actual dollars, not dollars corrected for inflation. The table reports the median starting and current salary for these various categories of alumni as well as the lowest and highest salary for each division.

A brief analysis of the table clearly shows the financial advantage of the masters degree. In almost every year category, for starting and current income, and for median income as well as the low and high income, the salaries of respondents with DURP graduate degrees are higher than those of respondents with DURP undergraduate degrees, albeit starting median salaries for the latter appear to rise faster.

Several additional analyses of current salary levels were made by controlling for various categories of alumni employment status. The three control variables were: 1) type of organization, 2) primary function or responsibility, and 3) specialization within the field of planning. There appears to be a strong relationship between the type of organization (public/non-profit and private) and salary levels: respondents employed in the private sector tend to earn higher incomes than those employed in the public/non-profit sector. Moreover, respondents involved in executive or managerial positions tend to earn substantially higher incomes than those employed in non-executive positions. Not so obvious however, is the finding that within the public sector, there appears to be no relationship between the respondent's specialization within the field of planning (e.g., transportation, land use, etc.) and current salary. It is possible that such a relationship does, in fact, exist but has been concealed by the specialization groupings that had to be used because of the small number of respondents in many of the sub-groups (e.g., historic preservationists were grouped with architect-planners).

This year's alumni salary survey also included a series of questions concerning the major benefits that respondents receive as part of the compensation for their work. Of those employed in the planning profession, 92% receive a paid vacation while only 14% receive profit sharing. (Since profit sharing is found mainly in the private sector, it should be noted that 56% of private sector employees receive this benefit.) Although 75% of the respondents receive employer-paid pension benefits (both partial and full), 87% of those employed in the public sector receive such benefits while only 31% of those in the private sector receive the same. (In the private sector profit sharing is seen as a complement to Social Security and as the equivalent of a pension program.) Most respondents (94%) receive some form of paid health insurance while 69% receive some form of paid dependent health insurance. Slightly more than half indicated they receive paid continuing education benefits. Other benefits received by our responding alumni include dental coverage, productivity incentives, paid conference attendance, life insurance and paid holidays and sick leave. Excluding profit sharing and paid pension benefits, there appears to be no significant difference in employer-paid benefits between the private and public sector.

It was hoped that additional background data could be presented. Several attempts were made to provide additional salary comparisons by controlling for such variables as geographic location and city size. An attempt was also made to construct a geographic profile of both our undergraduate and graduate alumni. In all cases however, there were too few respondents to produce accurately the crosstabulation tables needed to provide the appropriate information. This, and other data can be provided in the years ahead if more alumni respond to future questionnaires.

* All figures are in dollars - not adjusted for inflation. Salaries of overseas alumni are omitted from these tables. The table includes retired alumni who reported salaries from their first job.

** Salary data for part-time or non-traditional employment were eliminated to provide a more realistic view of starting salaries for full-time employment in planning.

ddd Indicates that figures were withheld to avoid disclosure of specific salaries.

Note: Barbara Hartman and Jane Terry helped administer the survey. Terry Hoffman analyzed the data.

Follow-up on Wetmore Career Path Questionnaire

The Career Planning Seminar was initiated in the fall of 1980, and repeated in the spring of 1981. Interested students met with me for four seminar sessions and developed their own statements of career goals and career program.

Next fall we hope to include, as part of the Guide materials, career path guidelines derived from the excellent responses to our questionnaire this spring. More than 100 of the alumni provided career path data, and most included significant comments on job search.

A summary report is being prepared.

Retired from U. S. Dept. of the Interior, Bureau of Land Management on Dec. 31, 1979 and then accepted a position with a Nigerian firm to undertake an environmental analysis of the new Federal city which is under construction in Central Nigeria. While the assignment was extremely interesting and stimulating, I found out to my utter amazement that unless one had a resident permit, only the amount of money one can bring out of the country can equal that which was brought in. Needless to say that my sojourn over there was not too profitable! After returning, my wife and I after looking over the available retirement areas, settled on Austin, and find it utterly delightful. It has all of the attributes of a large urban area with all of the charm of a small country town. I am now looking for a consultant position and will keep you informed of any changes I may make.

Economic development strategy and project packaging continue to be our major emphasis. We have added a Florida office to the existing Washington, Atlanta and Denver establishments. While the program names may change, we are confident that economic development will be a mainstay of the new administration's programs. Another Illini, Walt D'Alessio is working with us and adding strength in economic development program administration.

As of March 1, 1981 the Office of Local & Urban Affairs will be part of the Dept. of Economic Development. The full impact of this is not yet clear. However, it does place in the same department the state concern for community development and for establishing a public/private partnership to achieve community development. A re-organization of D.E.D. is likely. More Later.

I continue to work on Central Washington with major on Downtown. Our convention center is now under construction, the Pennsylvania Ave. program is moving ahead, and private development is responding. We have published a background report, A Living Downtown for Washington, DC, and are undertaking an intensive program to complete the Downtown Plan. On my own time, which often seems limited, I am publishing a newsletter, American Urban Guidenotes: The Newsletter of Guidebooks; which emphasizes guidebooks to cities.

When school is out this summer, the Lewises are moving back to northern Virginia, where the Air Force is transferring its headquarters community planning function, from the Center here at Tyndall, to the Pentagon. I have mixed emotions - glad to get back to DC, apprehensive about housing costs, and totally underwhelmed at the thought of working at Fort Fumble, as we call it. However, it should be interesting. NOTE: The transfer was worked out 2 years ago and is most definitely not a political move on my part.

Aside from the fact that my chest moved about 12 inches south, and that the hair continues to thin in spite of roto-tilling, turning 40 wasn't all that bad. We celebrated the occasion over copious amounts of wine and a few verses of "Hail to the Orange." We'll never forget our years in Illinois and hope our children get to enjoy a similar experience. Do you know it is still less expensive to matriculate at Illinois as an out of state student than it costs to go to Penn State as a Commonwealth resident!! I never met a Nitnany Lion I heed anyway!

Of course, the other side of the story is a growing appreciation for many "basic" things in the American lifestyle - ranging from supermarkets to sewage treatment. At present, I have no plans beyond my contract completion here, but am now exploring some prospects for staying overseas in another position. Hope to hear from some of you!

No change to report in terms of my professional position, that of partner in Freibich & Leitner, Attorneys and Legal Consultants, specializing in municipal law, and development and implementation of growth management systems. Our clientele, however, is expanding and we are working in virtually all regions of the United States. I have recently had the opportunity to work with another Illinois alumnus - Steve Speise, in Kansas City, Kansas, on a major zoning project. Also, I was very pleased to see Prof.'s Goodman, Guttenberg and Patton at the APA conference in Cincinnati.

I have just been named Assistant Executive Director. My main responsibility is the operation of the City Charter mandated Uniform Land Use Review Procedure. All items which must go through the ULURP procedure are reviewed by the Community Boards, the City Planning Commission and the Board of Estimate. We get about 1200 applications a year, ranging from zoning changes and housing projects to landfills and cable T.V. franchises. My work will involve supervising staff, dealing with applicants, both public and private, and trying to correct some of the flaws in the process. Tune in one year from now for the results.

At the office, we have staffed up and have embarked on an aggressive comprehensive growth management program for our county. We are interested in compiling information on growth management techniques, successes, and failures, which may be too recent to be in the literature. If any alumni have such information, I ask them to drop me a line and I'll call to discuss it. I will say that this program has really livened up the job. At home, we have moved to the small town of Ashland, about fifteen miles north of Richmond. I live very close to the RF & P Railroad, which provides many good and varied opportunities for train watching. If any alumni happen to be in the area, I invite them to come by to drink beer and watch trains. Vicki is involved in many pursuits: herbs, needlework, crafts, etc. and has, for the last year, been running the County's cannery. Jeffrey is in the 5th grade and has recently been involved in a special land use and environment class, which I've enjoyed following. Amy starts kindergarten this fall, and enjoys watching trains with Daddy. Y'all be good.

I was fired from the position of Community Development Director at City of Vandalia, Ohio, but I beat them in court and started a contract machine-shop business with their cash settlement. Hence the company's name. I now do precision metal work, and it's fun! Surprising as it may seem to those of you in public service, the private metalworking trade rewards performance and accuracy rather than penalizing those characteristics. Ten years is a long time to spend with one agency, but the diversity and challenges associated with the agency have made the time pass quickly. Paula and I thoroughly enjoy being parents, especially since our decision to rear a family took so long. Our son Peter, is a joy, a source of pride and yes - a source of frustration. There are times when I could swear that he is four years old and ready to turn twenty. I certainly would like to hear from York Phillips, Tom Priestly and the rest of the "troglodytes" who spent so much time in the design studio in the basement of Bevier Hall.

1980 has been an exciting year. My wife Queenie and I finally moved into our new home, and I am very quickly becoming domesticated with the many chores which our home requires. I am doing the "finish" carpentry and, needless to say, it is still "unfinished"; along with the landscaping, some painting, garage door...etc. But it is all good therapy., Yes? We were also privileged last spring to visit China. It is an interesting country and it was especially meaningful for us as we are both of Chinese ancestry. Maybe someday I can again return there for some planning related endeavor. Aloha to all and best wishes in the year of the Rooster!

1980 brought our firm one of our most challenging and interesting projects to date. The Los Angeles County Transportation Commission hired us to develop a plan for the consolidation and coordination of all paratransit services throughout the County (7 million people, 4,000 square miles, 345 separate paratransit systems). We just started a similar project for St. Louis and its surrounding counties. Most of our other activities are smaller scale local transit planning projects, and a few state-level projects in various states. Our criminal justice facilities planning work was smaller this past year, and mostly confined to a few northeastern states and Texas. Some new and odd, but fun, projects include: preparing a statewide comprehensive trails inventory and plan for South Carolina; and industrial site feasibility studies and plans for a consortium of 11 cities and towns in North Carolina.

I am now working as Manager of the landscape department for the Mission Viejo Co., one of the largest homebuilders in southern California. In this capacity,

I am in charge of all landscape activities for the company, including design, construction and maintenance. Last year I was responsible for approximately 20 million dollars in improvements. On the home front, Lynda and I have a two year old daughter and are expecting another child, hopefully a girl, in July.

Marilyn and I have bought our own business in Denver. We have been here a year and love Colorado. I switched careers, and now I am a head-hunter, placing accountants and some technical personnel. I will be doing some real estate and development for some Canadian clients who are interested in investing in Denver. So far I don't miss Detroit nor city planning. Say hello if you are in the area.
P.S. There's no money in planning - rewards, YES, but rewards don't pay bills! A "planner burn-out."

After 6 years of dealing with zoning, comprehensive plans, citizen participation and planning commissions, I've migrated into the private sector as a mortgage analyst with a mortgage banking, property management and real estate development firm. I've just started this week learning an entire new vocabulary. I'll be primarily involved with the packaging of large scale residential developments for FHA Title X mortgage insurance. Most of our projects are in sunbelt areas, so the considerable travel involved should be pleasant, particularly during the winter.

We relocated and renamed our consulting firm; we are now in the beating heart of downtown Minneapolis. Janie and I made the complete switch, moving our "home" into a downtown condo. I must say, I was a failure as a single family detached homesteader anyway (our garden qualified for federal disaster assistance). I am pursuing work on housing projects, and several economic development programs for downtowns in Minnesota cities.

Housing planning and/or development is not the field to be in these days, but I intend to stick with it here or elsewhere. The C.D. Department has grown to 8, with maximum CDBG funding, some 312, and a UDAG. Naturally, we're all awaiting word on continued funding. The house requires paint, and the cats and dogs are fat. It's election time locally, so nothing is simple. Four out of five week nights are spent in meetings - I think I'm overemployed.

I've been married for only 9 months and I'm enjoying it. My job responsibilities at the Illinois Board of Higher Education are very different than those at a planning commission; however, the technical skills I learned at the U of I campus are very applicable. My community activities are very much related to planning, particularly in the area of housing. I'm an officer in an organization called "Access to Housing" which is concerned with the physical and socio-economic integration of low- and moderate-income families in the community. We're in the process of looking for funds to hire staff, so if anyone knows of any resources "lying about," give me a holler.

After 4 years with the National Conference of State Legislatures, I have decided to "move on." I have accepted a Division Director position with the Arizona State Land Dept. in Phoenix. My primary responsibility will be to implement a Natural Resource Information System for use in land management, resource development, etc. for the Dept. and other resource agencies in Arizona. I am looking forward very much to assuming my new responsibilities about July 1. I'm not so sure about the 115 degree summers, but I suppose the beautiful winters will more than make it up. Deb and the kids are all doing fine (Matt(6), Manda (4), Molly (2)--no new little ones to report! If any of you in the "old crowd" are in Phoenix, be sure to give me a call (I'll be in the phone book), and stop by for a dip and a nip.

On the job front, I have completed a revision to the 1974 West Dundee Comprehensive Plan, Land Use Element. Work on the Transportation & Downtown Elements will begin shortly. Speaking of downtowns, downtown Dundee was 1 out of 4 winners selected from a field of 76 entries to participate in the Illinois Main St. Program dealing with historic preservation. Thus, I have been deeply involved in downtown planning as well as the periphery area surrounding our Spring Hill Regional Shopping Mall (5 anchor stores and 1.2 million square feet). Despite the doomsayers, Spring Hill Mall opened 10/1/80 with 75% of the expanded road network in place. Vicki and I are still refinishing our basement in our "historic" ranch home in West Dundee. I have been known to rest there between meetings. Good-bye and Good Luck to all.

I am on the Board of Directors of a non-profit housing corporation which is doing two elderly housing projects, both of which are in a critical stage. One is a 107-unit, Section 8 Sub. Rehab. Project and the other is a 65-room residential hotel. There is a problem with getting the financing on the former and getting a Section Plan for Denver. My wife now works in the Aurora Planning Office and is in charge of their block grant program.

It has been a couple of years since I've written for the News, so here's a brief update on Debbie and myself. In 1979, we bought a new, bigger house, but, despite the added space, we have decided to remain childless in the interest of our careers. Debbie has passed the CPA exam, and has been working for the Alexander Grant & Co. office in nearby Appleton. She has excelled in her work and has received rapid promotions. While Debbie is working long hours in the winter, I've taken up the model railroading hobby. In so doing, I am hoping to solve the problems of railroad-highway crossing delays which have long confounded our local politicians. On the professional side, the last couple of years have been very rewarding. We have completed the city's first comprehensive plan and have a very successful neighborhood revitalization program in operation. We are also in the process of preparing a detailed historic preservation survey for the city which will be concluded with the nomination of our downtown district to the National Historic Register. If any of my old classmates are in the area, I hope you will call or stop in.

I remember once thinking that planners only worked one place for two years at a time. It's four and a half now at Argonne. The new administration, however, may clear the field of energy planners, which could be rather a mess. Life in the suburbs with Cindy, a house, a waterbed, and two dogs (Alaska and Hawaii) goes on. I left the planning profession about two years ago. I have pursued land surveying as a step toward site designing on a technical level. I've been working outside as a crew chief with subdivisions, highways and industrial sites. I enjoy working outside and being my own boss during the day's work. I became disenchanted with bureaucracy and politics. My emphasis is now toward civil engineering. I'll be getting married this spring.

Sue and I enjoy the Pacific Northwest. Even with volcanic eruptions and earthquakes, it's becoming home. My work is interesting--I've been working on legislation to remove barriers to renewable energy development (tax incentives-heating districts) and re-examining S.E.P.A. I'm also learning a lot about hazardous and radioactive waste disposal, since the state is negotiating an interstate compact. We're looking forward to summer, to get back into the woods and back onto the coast.

It's my first job with the private sector, and I'm getting used to it and enjoy it; but it's an adjustment from public and private non-profit work. Ed and I are fine, loving the Northwest and all it has to offer. Sometimes, though, I miss the cornfields.

Still here in Cambridge, working for the Housing Authority. From one folding chair and card table we now provide rent assistance to 210 families, are constructing 2-bedroom apartments for 76 families, and will begin this spring 74 apartments for the elderly. We're also rehabbing an old hotel for 50 more elderly units. Not bad for a small burg of 15,000. The office is staying modern too-- we just put our entire accounting and tenant/owner information onto our own microcomputer.

As of August 1981, I'll be winding down a two-year effort in regional economic development planning for the Rockford/Belvidere/Janesville/Beloit area of northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin, where I've mainly been studying impacts of changes in the automobile manufacturing economy with its associated constraints and development opportunities. I'm aiming toward full-time consulting with an extended network of planning friends. We brought my wife's parents over from Yugoslavia; the two of them, my wife Steffie, and two young sons, Israel and Mordecai, constitute a bustling in-house extended family of six which is beginning to fill our already large place. I do planning business almost every month with Ray Ontiveros (MUP 1975) and Joe Heck (MUP 1976).

I am the Manager of the Administrative Division whose 10 employees handle marketing for the Transit System and DOT. Financial Control (DOT Budget), Special Transportation for the Handicapped and Grant Application. It is quite a good opportunity for management experience. The bus system has a fleet of approx. 100. The city plans to construct a downtown transit mall and a new bus maintenance facility in the next 2 years.

After 3 1/2 years with Humboldt County, I accepted a position in January with the City of Pleasanton Planning Department, located here just east of the San Francisco Bay area. After dealing with issues concerning natural resources, flooding, septic tanks, rural subdivisions, and the like, I am now encountering questions relating to design review, housing, air quality, traffic studies, sewers, and large office/commercial park complexes. The change from a rural to an urban perspective, from a county to a city level, has been challenging. Environmental review, subdivisions, use permits, and special studies are some of my duties. I hope the change in "environment" will provide me a beneficial learning experience. It was a hard choice choosing between the redwoods and San Francisco! My best wishes to all. But, reunion or not, I extend a special salute to my colleagues of the Class of '76 on the occasion of our 5th anniversary.

I have missed contributing since graduation, but enjoy reading of classmates' accomplishments. I spent another year in Urbana, studying transportation modeling in the Civil Engineering Dept. I also worked on three projects for Argonne National Laboratory, the Corps of Engineers, and the U. of I. We moved to Phoenix in July, 1978, where I accepted an offer from the Arizona Department of Transportation. I modeled Phoenix freeways that will never be built and air quality programs that will never be implemented. In November, 1979, I moved to the Corporate Planning Department at Salt River Project. SRP is a public utility providing water and power to this area. I have been forecasting customer growth and demand for electricity, and hope to develop a land use model to forecast the distribution of growth in the Phoenix metropolitan area.

I lived in San Diego from 1978 to January of 1980 and after 5 months of part-time odd jobs, got a position as planner with (gasp) a land developer! I've gained respect for the conscientious developers--they do exist. I had the pleasure to work with and become friends with an alumnus, Hwei Chi Sui, a graduate of architecture 1950's. The opportunities for planners are terrific in the west, as the growth rates continue to lead the nation. The Phoenix area is a pleasant community, a big city with a small-town atmosphere.

I am working on a federal grant for an Alinsky-style community organization. I'm primarily doing a comprehensive revitalization plan for a "neighborhood" of 45,000 low-income persons in Southwest Detroit.

The plan is to consist of demographic, housing, and land use data; as well as information on real estate and lending activities, availability of public service facilities and human services, and an analysis of the commercial/industrial uses. At the same time, I've been researching and applying for other funding for the organization. My grant will be completed by July, 1981, at which time I intend to take an unemployment-financed "leave" to be a full-time parent to our three daughters...for the summer, anyway!

I have just returned to the United States after working 2 1/2 years in Niger, Africa, on the edge of the Sahara Desert. Not too many urbans there! I taught school, coached a pathetic basketball team and learned to live on rice and sauce and beans. Camels are ornery creatures. I marvelled at the mass transit systems of Vienna and Paris on my journey home; arrived in Chicago expecting sophisticated suburban bus systems and tiny cars. Instead I found huge tanks on the roadways and the Region Transportation Authority near bankruptcy--one of the many realities of American life that I've had to readjust to after a long absence. I've decided the field of UP needs me; I'm now scouring the country trying to convince employers of that.

Continue to work for a management consulting firm. Current projects include an evaluation of the Energy Extension Service, a program which provides energy conservation information to residential and small business consumers and local governments. I am currently participating in an effort to develop an energy plan for Illinois. Very interesting work that I can recommend to someone interested in comprehensive planning. In three years, I've done population projection work for the Illinois Bureau of the Budget (never got done though), emergency plans for Illinois Emergency Services and Disaster Agency, and now this. I have found being a generalist with a little analytical background has wide application. Next year I hope to report on the completion of Illinois' first Energy Plan.

I am working in the current planning section of the Phoenix Planning Department. I assist the public with zoning matters and write staff recommendations on rezoning cases, which are a booming business in Phoenix. Mike and I sold our house in Tempe and bought a new one in Phoenix after I went to work for the City. Then the residency requirement was dropped, but we are really enjoying our new home and living in Phoenix.

My full-time occupation at the present is being a mother to Sarah, age 2, and Matthew, age 6 months. We still live in the Humboldt Park neighborhood of Chicago, and I am active with my local neighborhood group, as chairman of the development committee. Our committee monitors the activities of developers in the area, both private and public, and seeks to ensure better housing for lower-income people. It's a continuing challenge, especially in today's market.

Full-time law school is not as bad as some say it is. I am maintaining my interest in housing by planning, financing and completing a 235-subsidized moderate-income cooperative project. Also, my U. of I. planning degree made me the top choice for a good-paying job studying surface and groundwater pollution regulation. I was sorry to break up the team of Vince Musto (MUP 1977) and Levesque in Bridgeport, CT. but we plan to ski together in Vermont this winter.

Although I spend most of my time being an administrator, I try to actively pursue survey work, educational projects, and development of National Register district nominations. I have been deeply involved in creating a preservation plan for Evanston, a town which has a wealth of fine architecture to preserve.

In June 1980, I became the first City of Raton/Colfax County planner. It is a great challenge to be responsible for initiating a new planning program in a community that has done "without" for so long. I am "the" staff--land use planner, community development coordinator, grant writer, traffic engineer, draftsman, and so on. Raton is in the mountains of north-central New Mexico at an elevation of 6800 ft. Colfax County is an energy-impacted area, with Raton being the county seat and the center of most population growth (1980 population of 8,400). The effective management of growth, while often misunderstood, is well-supported by community leaders.

I am now into my second year as Executive Director of the West Side NHS, a division of Buffalo NHS, Inc. In our first 14 months of operation, we are estimating that we have leveraged approximately $340,000 in private reinvestment. This figure is based primarily on building permit data, so we feel it is much lower than the actual amount of private reinvestment. Because of our first year success, the West Side NHS has recently been invited to expand its program into an adjacent neighborhood. Buffalo has now had two winters of record-low snow levels. My cat was nine years old last spring.

After two years with the National Trust for Historic Preservation, Midwest Regional Office, I have taken a position with the State of Illinois Dept. of Commerce and Community Affairs. I am now the State-wide coordinator for the Main Street Illinois program, a program aimed at downtown revitalization through historic preservation. The work is challenging, provoking, stimulating and frustrating all at once, and I love it! I'm finding some new skills and talents I didn't know I had, which is the most gratifying aspect of this new position. I live alone in a cute, little studio apartment on Chicago's northside. What free time I have I spend with family and friends. I'd love to hear from any of the old DURP crowd.

Lately I have been studying mapping and drafting computers for use in my department. Not much has changed since I left U. of I. I'm still single and unattached, living in the suburbs, and trying to figure out how to afford a home in the high-priced California real estate market. As Mike and Jan Hatmaker, Gregg Perry, Jim and Robbie Rice Dietrich, and scores of others can attest, I am a great tour guide and have plenty of floor space in my apartment. Since the latest edition of Alumni News, three events of importance to me have occurred. First, I ran the Peachtree Road Race (10,000 km) on July 4th with 25,000 other participants. I completed the hilly course within the 55-minute goal and received the coveted T-shirt awarded to the finishers (survivors). Second, Brenda and I have purchased our first home. The 25-year-old house is nestled among tall pine trees and, thankfully, only required the rehabilitation skills of a novice. Finally, I have been promoted to an administrative position. I direct a grants-writing staff of ten very challenging and cooperative writers. Brenda and I are still enjoying "Southern Living" and invite y'all to visit us.

Once again I must report that Valerie and I are still in New Jersey. While we do not look upon this as a permanent condition, for the past 3 1/2 years it has been a habit. For a short time last year, we considered purchasing a home, but our free spirit refused to relinquish the decadent life of apartments and sports cars. There will be plenty of time in the future for mowing lawns, making babies and driving station wagons. My office is very busy these days due to three major rounds of layoffs since 1979. The fortunates who remain with the department are faced with absorbing the responsibilities of those laid off. The past year has been exciting for me; obtaining local and HUD approvals for a 480-unit Neighborhood Strategy Area and a 70-unit conversion of a vacant industrial mill. Continuing to grow is the Neighborhood Preservation Program which is providing rehab assistance to homeowners. We miss our DURP friends.

Greetings from the land of tornadoes, dust storm, droughts, and 40 consecutive days of 100 degree plus temperatures. Even with these conditions I'm still hoping that what Oklahoma did for Will Roger's wit, it will do for mine. In my same pioneer spirit, I've become proficient at the business of rehabilitating houses (that is not the same as counselling wayward homes!?). I crawl inside and out, upstairs and down, get the work under contract, then spin some yarns with the "good ole boy" contractors. At the same time, I take on the responsibility of a dozen elderly ladies remodeling their homes for the first time in years. It's both challenging and rewarding if not also very frustrating. Galen and I find Norman to be the most liberal community statewide. Galen is enjoying his work as a legal aid attorney. We're stocking up the pantry, however, awaiting news of Reagan's final budgetary policies. Best wishes to all. If you're ever in Oklahoma. . .

After a year and a half in Louisiana's "Cajun country," I have relocated to St. Louis. My first planning job in Lafayette, LA, offered high visibility and a great variety of planning tasks. But I have a Midwestern soul and love the bright lights of the big city, so I was easily lured away from the Lafayette "boom" to the St. Louis "bust." Here I do neighborhood planning for the City of St. Louis. The mammoth revitalization effort taking place in St. Louis is both professionally exciting and personally rewarding. The East Central Illinois Area Agency on Aging is a not-for-profit corporation responsible for planning and developing a comprehensive service delivery system to persons 60 and older in a 16-county area. There are 13 AAA's in Illinois. This agency was one of the first to employ a full time professional planner. Since 1979, three other AAA's have hired planners. Job duties include analysis of population data, conducting a needs assessment of the older population, developing social service programs, and evaluating program costs and performance and projecting future service needs and costs. I work in conjunction with 5 field consultants and a program manager who have primary responsibility for implementation of the annual plan of service. The area agency receives its funding from the Illinois Dept. of Aging which has responsibility for developing a statewide plan for services to older people. The most important issue facing this agency in the future will be the reauthorization of the Older Americans Act in FY81. The most important event will be the White House Conference on Aging in Washington, Nov. 30-Dec. 3, 1981, and the Illinois White House Conference at Krannert Center, U. of I., May 27 and 28, 1981. My wife, Maria, and our two daughters, Natalie and Theresa, reside in Bloomington and will probably be moving to larger quarters this summer.

Like most taxpayers and employees largely supported by federal funding, Nadine and I follow the proposed budget cuts and tax reductions with great interest. We already have a number of ideas about how to stimulate the nation's economy with our windfall tax rebate. Since it appears that weapons manufacturing will be a lucrative business under the present administration, we're considering investing in the packaging of N.J.'s toxic wastes for sale to the military. On the lighter side, Nadine and I are well settled in a 60-year-old house 6 blocks from a train station from which I travel to work and occasionally into N.Y. for shows, exhibits, meetings, etc. Nadine is completing her MCRP with a concentration in educational policy while I'm busy tearing into the house with a number of projects including the installation of a fireplace.

I am working on my Master's degree in Urban Planning and Policy at Chicago Circle (at night), so at least that keeps me busy. I'm really enjoying it so far, although I do have a bias toward C-U's planning department and professors. Best wishes to all my fellow planners.

My work with the Hammond Department of Planning and Development is going quite well. Despite budget cuts and Hammond's fiscal crisis our office has remained intact. My responsibilities include historic preservation and downtown development. A good deal of my time is spent on economic development.

I began working for the Cooperative Extension Service of Penn State University in mid-June 1980. Coco and Peter joined me in August after a short working-vacation at my folks' farm in Michigan. The job is unique. I provide informal educational programs to groups on almost any issue related to "community development." The exceptions occur when research support (specialists) can't be identified at P.S.U. or when out-of-state extension materials aren't available. The region I cover consists of eight counties and includes the cities of Philadelphia, Allentown, Reading and Chester. It's an incredible daily challenge.

I finally finished my Master's project and graduated last August. I can now state with a degree of certainty that I will not be attempting a Ph.D. in the foreseeable future. I am currently working for the State of Illinois in the health and social service field. My duties involve analyzing rate issues in and with state agencies, assisting with budget planning, and assisting in the development of implementation strategies for legislative and regulatory mandates. The job remains challenging. Brian is now completing his fourth year towards a Ph.D. in microbiology. He misses DURP Saturday-morning basketball. We have a commuting marriage now. Of course, vacations help; we skied for five days in northern Michigan.

I finally finished my degree and left Champaign. I'm working for a progressive municipal utility (electricity and water) in Springfield, IL. I was lucky enough to get in on the ground floor of planning and program development for the Energy Conservation Office. The job has been challenging and rewarding, although budget constraints have proven to be frustrating. I would be interested in talking to other alumni involved in the area of energy planning and/or those with insight into managing an office. Learning by trial and error is not very efficient. I will be glad to help anyone who is interested in job-hunting in Springfield. Hope that everyone is doing well, back at DURP.

When will I ever finish with school!
After getting my MUP degree last year I decided to try my luck in law school. I'm becoming so accustomed to the life of a "poor" college student that I won't know what it will be like to earn real money! I also work part-time as a planner at CTA. The school/work combination keeps me quite busy.

Well, last year (1980) was quite different after having been a student for so long. Of all places, I ended up in Omaha, Nebraska-- not exactly headed eastward, my intended direction of travel. Nevertheless, my stay in Omaha as a VISTA volunteer was quite an experience. Where else could anyone see: contract zoning, a UDAG to convert 100 abandoned apartments into 50 townhouse condominiums, a HUD self-help grant for commercial revitalization at an intersection that has acquired "a reputation" since 1968, and a grain elevator explosion! But all good things come to an end. So I'm back in Illinois and taking a full-time load (12 hrs) at the local junior college. My intentions at the present time are to work toward an MBA. How far I'll get is up to you to guess-- Until next year.....

Greetings from the Rockies! I landed an internship position with Lakewood approximately 12 hours after my arrival here. It turned out to be everything I could have asked for. Moreover, I have been promoted to the position of Economic Planner. I'm really looking forward to the experience I will gain and the challenges that await me. I hope to start work on my Master's this Summer (part-time at night). Looks like I'm headed toward Environmental Planning or Landscape Architecture. The mountains are beautiful (when you can see them), but I do miss the prairie and the water! Hope any of you who make it out this way will give me a call.
